

Fitzgerald's Flowers

Authors sometimes use flowers as symbols in their literary works. Fitzgerald explicitly uses the names of different flowers to add hidden layers of meaning to his novel.

Research the symbolic meaning for each type of flower along with color and description. We may find out some of these are perfect for the characters they represent, while some may be ironic. Some may simply share a name only.

1. Daisy
2. Myrtle
3. Caraway
4. Orchids
5. Rose
6. Lavender
7. Lilacs