

Name: _____

Homeroom: _____

Satire Guided Notes

What is satire?

Satire is sarcasm, irony, or wit used to _____ something or someone more _____.

What are the two categories of satire?

Horatian Satire is _____, witty, wise, and self-effacing. Juvenalian satire is _____, caustic, resentful, and personal.

What is verbal irony?

Verbal irony is saying the _____ of what you mean.

How is this an example of verbal irony?

What is dramatic irony?

Dramatic irony is when one character does or says something _____ something in the plot that affects that character.

How is this an example of dramatic irony? _____

What is situational irony?

Situational irony is when there is a _____, or a lack of similarity, between two events.

How is this an example of situational irony? _____

What is travesty?

Travesty is taking a _____ subject and making it not seem important.

How is this an example of travesty? _____

Name: _____

Homeroom: _____

Satire Guided Notes

What is parody?

Parody takes a serious work and _____ it to make fun of it in a silly way.

How is this an example of parody?

What is hyperbole?

Hyperbole/Exaggeration is when one makes something _____ seem much _____ or grander than it actually is.

How is this an example of hyperbole?

What is understatement?

Understatement is making a really _____ or important issue seem like it isn't that important.

How is this an example of understatement?

What is malapropism?

Malapropism is _____ something on purpose in order to poke fun of it.

How is this an example of malapropism?

What is anachronism?

Anachronism is the juxtaposition of two things from different time periods to _____ two different _____.

How is this an example of anachronism?

